Section 2 Coinage System

Art. 4 Regular issue coinage

<sup>2</sup> The Confederation shall mint and issue regular issue coins in order to meet demand for payment transactions.

<sup>3</sup> The Federal Council shall decide which regular issue coins are to be minted, put into circulation or withdrawn from circulation.

<sup>4</sup> The Federal Council shall decide on the design and the features of regular issue coins. It shall determine the denominations in agreement with the Swiss National Bank.

<sup>5</sup> It shall regulate the exchange of coins by public cash offices of the Confederation and the elimination of damaged, unsightly and counterfeit coins.

Art. 4a<sup>3</sup> Commercial services

<sup>1</sup> The Federal Mint may provide commercial services to third parties provided these services:

- a. are closely connected with its main tasks;
- b. do not impede fulfilment of the main tasks; and
- c. do not require any significant additional material or human resources.

<sup>2</sup> Commercial services shall be provided on the basis of a cost and performance accounting system at cost-covering prices as a minimum. The department responsible may authorise exceptions for certain services where there is no private sector competition.

Art. 5 Provision of coinage

<sup>2</sup> In order to guarantee the supply of cash, the National Bank may issue regulations on the manner, place and time for the receipt and delivery of coins.

Art. 6 Commemorative coins and bullion coins

<sup>1</sup> For numismatic requirements and investment purposes, the Confederation may mint special quality regular issue coins, as well as commemorative coins and bullion coins. These coins may be issued above nominal value.

<sup>3</sup> Inserted by Annex No 5 of the Federal Act of 19 June 2015 (Optimisation of the New Accounting Model), in force since 1 Jan. 2016 (AS 2015 4009; BBl 2014 9329).

Section 3     Bank Note System

Art. 7            Issue of Banknotes

<sup>4</sup> In order to ensure cash distribution, the National Bank may issue regulations on the manner, place and time for the receipt and delivery of banknotes.

Art. 8            Replacement of banknotes

<sup>1</sup> The National Bank shall provide compensation for a damaged note, provided that its series and number are recognisable and the holder presents a part that is larger than half or proves that the missing part of the note has been destroyed.

<sup>2</sup> The National Bank shall not provide any compensation for destroyed, lost or counterfeit notes.

Art. 9            Recall

<sup>3</sup> The National Bank is required to exchange the recalled notes at their nominal value for a period of 20 years following the first notice of recall.
